Send Requests To Postmaster

Appomattox Stamp Announced

A free lance artist who sent an unsolicited stamp design to Postmaster General John A. Gronouski, then crossed his fingers hopefully, can uncross them today — for his artwork is to appear on the Appomattox commemorative postage stamp.

Leonard Fellman, 44 - year old commercial artist of Edina, Minnesota, designed the stamp that is to be first issued April 9 with ceremonies at Appomattox, Va. The 5-cent stamp is the fifth and final in the Civil War Centennial series.

It is a rarity for unsolicited designs to be accepted for postage stamps.

Fellman's design shows a soldier and stacked rifles silhouetted against a blue and gray background. A phrase from Lincoln's second inaugural address — "with malice toward none . . ." catches the mood of the event at Appomattox that was to lead to the end of hostilities.

At the top of the stamp appears "Civil War Centennial" in black, and beneath this is "Appomattox" in white. Both are in modified barnum, as are the dates "1865-1965," in black, which appear vertical left. "United States Postage", in white sans serif capitals is at the base of the stamp and the denomination "5c" is lower right.

Of the five stamps in the Civil War centennial series, this is the sole vertical design. It was modeled at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing by Robert J. Jones. Arthur W. Dunkman engraved the vignette and lettering and numerals are by George A. Payne. One hundred fifteen million will be printed on the Giori press in black and blue.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Appomattox, Virginia, 24522. Postage stamps and personal checks will not be accepted in payment of the new issue. The envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Orders for covers must not include requests for uncancelled stamps. Requests must be postmarked not later than April 9, 1965.

Burley Vote Set For Feb. 25

Burley tobacco growers will vote February 25, 1965, on marketing quotas for the next three crops, J. A. Martin, Chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, reminded farmers today.

Growers eligible to vote in the referendum are all those who produced Burley tobacco in 1964 and shared in the crop or its proceeds. Also, each person who was either the owner or operator of a farm for which a 1964 Burley tobacco allotment was established is eligible to vote, even though no tobacco was actually produced on the farm in 1964 if an allotment was established for the farm for 1965.

The total supply of Burley tobacco for the current marketing year is 2,043 million pounds, including an October 1 carryover of 1,412 million pounds and estimated 1964 production of 631 million pounds. The carryover included 265 million pounds under Government loan. This total supply is an all-time high and enough for about 3.6 years at the current level of domestic use and export. A Burley supply equal to about 2.8 years' use is considered desirable. Intensifying our supply problem are the large surpluses in foreign producing countries available at lower prices as compared with our prices.

Besides an overall drop in U.S. cigarette production, less tobacco is going into such production because of fuller utilization of the entire leaf, the increased proportion of filter-tip cigarettes, and an increased proportion of oriental tobacco.

The decision to be made in the quota referendum can be simply stated," Chairman Martin declared. If quotas for Burley tobacco are approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting, the law provides that the present program will be continued for the next three crop years—with penalties on excess tobacco marketed, acreage allotments, and price supports.

'On the other hand, if more than one-third of the voters disapprove quotas by voting NO, there will be no marketing quotas, no penalties on excess tobacco, and no price-support protobacco.

Marine Band Coming April 9

Civil War novelist Bruce Catton will give the commemorative address on the 100th anniversary of the surrender of General Robert E. Lee, it was announced today.

Ceremonies will be held at the restored village of Appomattox Court House 2 miles east of here on April 9 at 2 p.m.

Sponsoring the event will be the Virginia Civil War Commission, the National Park Service and the Appomattox Civil War Centennial Committee.

John Warren Cooke, Chairman of the Virginia Commission, said all three agencies desired a program of simple dignity. He said he thought Catton was an ideal choice for the occasion because of his sensitive feeling for the soldiers on both sides of the conflict.

Catton achieved national recognition with his best-selling "A Stillness at Appomattox." He is editor of American Heritage Magazine and a member of the United States Civil War Centennial Commission.

The ceremonies will be held in front of the recently reconstructed court house from which the village gets its name. It will be dedicated by the National Park Service immediately following Mr. Catton's address. The United States Marine Band from Quantico will provide music for the occasion.

Feed Grain Sign-Up Underway

The signup for the 1965 feed grain program now is under way in the ASCS County Office J. A. Martin, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County committee, has announced. The signup period started February 8 and will continue through March 26.

The Chairman explained that the program for 1965 is basically the same as in 1964. It is voluntary, and combines, corn, grain, sorghum, and barley in a single feed grain base. Participating farmers will qualify for diverted acre and price support payments and they will be eligible for price support loans.

Farmers who take part in the program may divert for payment an amount as large as 20 percent of the farm's feed grain base or as large an acreage as 50 percent of the base — 20 acres, if this is larger.

Two rates of diversion payment are offered. The lower rate applies to the first 20 percent of the feed grain base actually diverted. The higher rate applies to diverted acreage in excess of the minimum. If both the intended diversion and the acreage actually diverted are equal to at least 40 percent of the base, the higher rate applies to the entire acreage diverted.

New provisions in the 1965 program include (1) an opportunity to substitute feed grain s for wheat or wheat for feed grains by growers who take part in both programs, and (2) a special provision for designated varieties of malting barley. Under certain circumstances, producers may apply to overplant their barley base acreage by 10 percent. A producer electing this option will be eligible for the full county barley support rate, based on a national average of 96 cents per bushel, but he will not be eligible for barley diversion or price support payment.

Applications to take part in the 1965 feed grain program may be filed in the ASCS county office from Mondays through Fridays at any time between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.
